

Corn Dollies

Callie was bored sat out on the deck. It was a windy day. Mum told her to clean her room as it was so dirty. Under the bed, Callie found a box of weird things. There was a strange toy that looked like a corn dolly and as she looked closer it began to glow. Callie started to feel very dizzy...

In the blink of an eye, Callie landed with a bump. She gazed around her. Where was she? She was no longer in her bedroom at mum's house and she was surrounded by vines, trees and waterfalls. Beside her, she heard a funny voice. She turned around and couldn't believe her eyes. It was breath-taking! There was a whole group of rainbow coloured Macaws. There were talking ones, sitting ones and flying ones. She had to say hello!

As Callie got closer, she realised the Macaw's were looking for something.

"Is everything okay?" Callie asked nicely.

"Oh, hello little girl! My name is Tom. We are trying to find my sisters feather. Without it, she cannot fly!" Tom cried.

"I will help you find it!" Callie said, without wasting time, Callie went into the deep rainforest. Just as she was about to give up, Callie saw a rainbow feather buried in the vines. She grabbed it and gave it back to Tom. In return, he gave her a familiar corn dolly it started to glow and before she knew it, she was back in her bedroom. "What a fun day!" Callie smiled.

Daniel – Geoffrey Fields Junior School